

PROJECT BRIEF: The Game of Go

Go is an ancient game that originated in the orient and has a thousand years of history. While it is not as possible in the west, there are many who still play it. One reason that go does not have as many players is because of how complex it is.

There are many resources online to help you learn but you have to already know what you are looking for. This website will break down the game based on how much you already know and help to connect you with the best resource to help you improve, or even to learn how to start playing.

The website will have diagrams in the leaf pages as well as be fairly text heavy and have many external links. The initial page will be much less text heavy and be aimed at a clean way to find the right section for a person.
